The first edition of Georgia's Taxes, which was published in 1996, was originally written by Jack Morton and Richard Hawkins, with later contributions from David Sjoquist, the Director of the Center from 1996-2011, and others. The handbook was updated in recent years by Robert Buschman and Richard Hawkins. This edition was substantially reorganized and refreshed by Robert Buschman, with assistance from graduate research associate Lindsay Kuhn.

This edition reflects the cumulative work of all of these contributors. The Fiscal Research Center is very appreciative of their assistance and work over the years.

CORPORATE INCOME TAX

Tax Base

The corporation's taxable income from property owned or from business done in Georgia, which consists of taxable income as defined for federal income tax purposes with specific adjustments provided by Georgia law and as allocated and apportioned to Georgia as provided by Georgia law.

Federal Taxable Income

ADD

- Non-GA state & local bond interest

- Federal deduction for income attributable to domestic production activities (IRC Sec. 199)

ADD

Apportionment Ratio

- 1) The standard apportionment ratio had been a three factor formula (on property, payroll and gross receipts). This formula has been phased out, in favor of gross receipts apportionment, for most multi-state corporations.

Effective for tax year 2008 and beyond, apportionment is based solely on the gross receipts ratio (receipts in Georgia versus total receipts everywhere) factor.

- 2) For corporations whose net income is derived principally from transporting passengers or cargo in flight, the apportionment is based on different factors (specifically share of air miles, tons handled and originating miles in Georgia).

Major Credits

Some of the more significant tax credits include:

- 1) Job Tax Credit: Credit is based on the Georgia county in which the jobs are created and are aimed at specific industries. Georgia's counties are divided into four tiers of progressively less developed areas. The credit is per job and per year, up to five years, but the employer must create more jobs in more developed areas in order to be eligible for the credit. For example, two or more jobs in the least developed areas (Tier I) generate a credit of $3,500 while an employer must create 25 or more jobs in the most developed counties in order to receive a credit of $750. The average wage of the new job created must exceed the average wage of the county in the state with the lowest average wage.

A separate credit is available for firms creating at least 50 quality jobs with specific definitions of quality.

- 2) Investment Tax Credit: A credit for qualified investment property purchased or acquired for use in construction or expansion of manufacturing or telecommunication facilities. Subject to specific conditions and limitations, the allowable credit ranges from 1 percent to 5 percent of the cost of such qualified property with higher credit amounts and lower threshold investment requirements in Georgia's less developed areas. A related credit applies to qualifying recycling and pollution control property investments.

An optional investment tax credit is available with a higher credit (in terms of percentage of investment), but is subject to a larger minimum investment. In addition, a new facilities jobs credit is available but the qualifying investment is considerably larger (i.e., $450 million versus $10 million).

- 3) Credits have also been established for providing or sponsoring education and for approved retraining, as well as for qualified contributions to student scholarship organizations.
- 4) Separate credits have been enacted for purchasing child care property and for providing or sponsoring child care.
- 5) Other corporate income tax credits include ones for: qualified transportation programs, low income housing, select vehicles (including reduced emissions), select research activities and establishing a qualified headquarters (again varying across tiers of counties), two separate port activity provisions, select film activities, qualified seed-capital funds, land conservation, and clean energy property and use of wood residuals in a qualified biomass facility.

Taxpayers who are required to file estimated returns pay estimated tax on or before April 15, June 15, and September 15 of the current year and on or before January 15 of the following year.

Employers are required to withhold tax and remit withholding periodically. Employers whose total tax withheld or required to be withheld is $200 or less per month shall remit payment on or before the last day of the month following the end of the calendar quarter. If the amount withheld or required to be withheld exceeds $200 per month, the return and remittance is due on or before the 15th day of the following month.

An additional deduction of $1,300 is allowed for taxpayers 65 and older ($2,600 if the spouse is also at least 65 and a joint return is filed), and a further deduction in the amount of $1,300 if the taxpayer is blind ($2,600 if the spouse is also blind and a joint return is filed).

The credit amount is graduated based on adjusted gross income amounts up to the maximum $20,000 with a maximum credit of $26 per dependent, including the taxpayer and, if a joint return, the spouse. No person who receives a food stamp allotment for all or any part of a tax year is eligible for the credit for that tax year.

A resident individual who earns income in another state that imposes an income tax on such income may apportion his total income to Georgia and credit against his Georgia liability the tax paid to the other state. In no case shall this credit exceed the amount which would be payable to Georgia upon a like amount of income.

Disposition of Revenue

Chronology of Significant Changes

- 1985 Authorization for the tax enacted. Subsequent amendments have expanded the types of capital outlay projects that qualify the county to levy the tax.
- 2004 Provision is made for the revenue to be used by municipalities.

Special Provisions

The tax may be levied only after referendum approval. At any time, only one 1 percent special purpose local option sales tax levy may be in existence in any county.

GENERAL SALES AND USE TAXES

The tax is levied for a period of time, normally not to exceed five years. Under certain conditions the maximum period can be longer.

The revenue may be used for transportation and certain other capital projects, and the retirement of general obligation debt.

The county government may enter into an intergovernmental agreement with municipalities regarding the use of the revenue. If the county does not have such an agreement, then special provisions apply for the allocation of the revenue to the county and municipalities. These provisions provide that the county gets an initial allocation of the expected revenue. This allocation is to fund all specified county-wide capital projects falling under a list of project types specified in the law. If no such projects are proposed, then an allocation of up to 20 percent of the expected revenue can be reserved for other county-wide capital projects. The remainder of the revenue is then allocated between the county and the municipalities based on their share of the county population.

The ballot question for referendum approval must contain the purpose of the proposed levy, the maximum time that the tax will be levied, the maximum cost of the project being funded, and other information relating to any debt to be created as a part of the capital outlay project.

The levy of the tax ceases when the amount of proceeds from the tax equals the amount stated as the cost of the project in the referendum ballot or the stated period of time for levy of the tax expires, whichever comes first.

TANGIBLE REAL AND PERSONAL PROPERTY TAXES (STATE & LOCAL)

NOTE: The state tax on real and personal property was phased out over the five-year period beginning 2012. After December 31, 2015, only local property taxes will apply.

Tax Base

Taxable value (assessed value) of tangible property is 40 percent of fair market value as defined by Georgia law, except for certain agricultural and conservation use property.

Tax Rate

Tax rates vary by taxing jurisdiction with taxes being levied by the county governing authority (countywide for general government purposes and in some counties within special tax districts within the county for specific purposes), by the local school district, by municipalities, and by the state. The state rate of taxation is uniform at $\frac{1}{4}$ of one mill (0.00025), but will be phased out by 2016.

Local county school systems are limited to a property tax rate not to exceed 20 mills for maintenance and operating purposes unless, by local referendum, the maximum rate has been increased.

Major Exemptions

Public property except for certain property owned by a political subdivision which is located outside the territorial limits of the subdivision.

Place of worship and religious burial.

Institutions of purely public charity. Income can be derived from the property so long as the income is used exclusively for the charity's operation.

Property of non-profit hospitals used in connection with their operation when the hospital has no stockholders, no income or profit distributed to benefit of any private person.

Buildings used as a college, incorporated academy, or other seminary of learning.

Farm products, for a period of one year after production, when the products remain in the hands of the producer.

Property which has been installed or constructed with the primary purpose of reducing or eliminating air or water pollution when the property is certified by the Department of Natural Resources.

The homestead of each person is exempt in an amount not to exceed $2,000 in assessed value where the person owns and occupies such homestead as principal place of residence. This exemption applies to the levy for maintenance and operation of the county government, the school system, and for the state levy. Certain elderly taxpayers are entitled to increased exemptions. For example, persons 65 and older with net incomes which do not exceed $10,000 annually, excluding income received from Social Security or from any other public or private retirement systems up to the maximum amount of Social Security benefits authorized for an individual and spouse, are entitled to an exemption of $4,000 from all state and county ad valorem taxes. A similar exemption for school tax purposes is available to persons 62 and older in an amount up to $10,000. The same net income qualification requirements exist for this exemption. Additional exemptions are provided for disabled homeowners, and for non-remarried spouses of peace officers or firefighters killed in the line of duty, and surviving spouse of a disabled veteran. In addition, a “floating” homestead exemption is available for persons 62 and older with household income not exceeding $30,000. This exemption covers state and county ad valorem taxes (excluding school taxes) and it applies to the assessed value which exceeds the assessed value on the homestead for the year immediately preceding the year that the taxpayer first qualifies for this exemption (thus the exemption amount increases at the same rate that the assessed value of the homestead increases in future years). It should be noted that several local governments have provided for homestead exemption amounts which exceed the general exemptions outlined here.

Tangible personal property used within the home, if not held for sale or other commercial use, is exempt. Tools and implements of trade and other personal property is exempt up to $7,500 in fair market value.

Farm tractors, combines and other farm equipment (excepting motor vehicles) which are owned by or held under a lease purchase agreement and directly used in the production of agricultural products by family-owned qualified farms are exempt.

Motor vehicles purchased after February 28, 2013, will no longer be subject to state or local property taxes.

Responsible for Administration

County boards of tax assessors are responsible for valuation and assessment; county tax commissioners and municipal authorities are responsible for collection of the tax; county and municipal governing authorities and local school systems levy the applicable millage rates; the State Revenue Commissioner has general oversight responsibility in equalization of assessments throughout the State.

Return and Payment Dates

The taxpayer is required to file a return covering any property not previously reported. Once the initial return is filed, the taxpayer is deemed to have returned the same property at the same value as was finally determined for the preceding year if the taxpayer does not file a new return. The law now provides that the completion of the real estate transfer tax form can serve as the initial return of the taxpayer for the next succeeding tax year. General law provides that returns must be filed on or before April 1 for the tax year which began the preceding January 1. Applications for homestead exemption are also due on or before April 1. Some counties have provided by law for earlier return deadlines.

Taxes are due on or before December 20 unless the county has provided for earlier payment deadlines; however, the taxpayer must be given 60 days in which to pay the tax once the bill has been sent.

Disposition of Revenue

The tax is collected locally and revenue is utilized by the local government which made the particular levy. The State tax is remitted to the State Revenue Commissioner and becomes part of the State general fund.

Chronology of Significant Changes

- 1913 Tax equalization statute enacted which provided for uniform assessments in all counties.
- 1937 Intangible property separated as separate class of property for tax purposes.
- 1937 Homestead exemption of $2,000 instituted.
- 1962 State revolving loan fund created to assist counties in programs of tax mapping and property revaluation.
- 1965 State Revenue Commissioner required by court decision to exercise his authority and responsibility to insure that assessments for all counties were equalized.
- 1968 Current assessment level of 40 percent of fair market value established by statute.
- 1972 Counties required to employ minimum number of staff appraisers depending upon the number of parcels of real property in the county. A state salary grant fund was created to assist counties with the employment of minimum staff.

PROPERTY TAXES

- 1972 Initial and continuous training for local assessor and appraisers was funded and required.
- 1972 County boards of equalization were created to hear and adjudicate property tax assessment appeals. Minimum training requirements were established.
- 1972 A State board of equalization was created to hear and adjudicate property tax appeals of railroad and utility companies who return property to the State Revenue Commissioner.
- 1983 Preferential assessment at 30 percent of fair market value rather than 40 percent was authorized for certain agricultural properties under a 10 year covenant to maintain the property in its qualified use.
- 1988 State Revenue Commissioner's authority and responsibility to examine local tax digests for equalization purposes was broadened to include responsibility for measuring quality of assessments within the county property class.
- 1991 Certain qualified agricultural use property, environmentally sensitive property, and transitional residential property, under a 10 year covenant to maintain the property in its qualified state, is valued to tax purposes according to its current use rather than its fair market value.
- 1992 The statute relating to the State Revenue Commissioner's authority to equalize county digests was changed to provide for a systematic review of each county's digest only once every three years.
- 1999 Homeowners Tax Relief Grant (HTRG) legislation passed to provide property tax relief in the form of a homestead exemption for state, county, and school district property taxes. Counties and school districts are reimbursed by the state for the reduction in assessed value through the annual appropriations bill.

- 2000 Comprehensive Taxpayer Bill of Rights legislation enacted which provides for increased notice through advertisement and public hearings when local governments levy ad valorem tax rates which result in significantly increased revenue from the preceding year.
- 2000 The 'fair market value' standard of valuation for property tax purposes is changed as it relates to the valuation of motor vehicles. Beginning January 1, 2002, the valuation of motor vehicles for property tax purposes shall be based on wholesale value.
- 2002 HTRG is extended to city property taxes.
- 2005 Property tax executions are to be issued against owners of record on the date that the taxes became delinquent.
- 2008 A new class of property, forest land conservation value property, was created. This property is taxed at its current use value if the owner signs a 15-year covenant to maintain property in its current use. The state is required by the Constitution to reimburse local government of a portion of the lost tax revenue due to this provision, where the portion depends upon the magnitude of the lost revenue.
- 2009 Assessed values for all classes of property were frozen for 2009 and 2010.
- 2009 Tax assessors are required to consider foreclosures and sales of bank-owned properties acquired through foreclosures in determining fair market value.
- 2009 FY2010 appropriations bill ended the state reimbursement to local governments for the HTRG.
- 2010 Five-year phase out of the state quarter mill will start in 2012.
- 2010 Comprehensive changes to property tax code, including property value notification requirements, new appeals process, and changes to valuation procedures.
- 2012 State and local property taxes on motor vehicles purchased after February 28, 2013 are eliminated and replaced with a new title ad valorem tax.
